M'KINLEY ATTENDS DIVINE SERVICE

THE PRESIDENT ELECT GOES TO CHURCH.

Many Prominent Men Visit Him—Telegrams of Congratulation Being Received—Silver Men Issue An Address—How the Senate Will Stand—Other News Notes.

Canton, O., Nov. 9.—The opening of the morning services in the First Methodist church Sunday found Maj. McKinley in his accustomed pew, he, with a number of friends, having walked early to the house of worship. With him were National Committeeman Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Smith of Urbana, O., and General Manager Melville E. Stone of the Associated Press. Mr. Dawes was a guest at the McKinley house all day, having arrived in the early morning. Mr. Stone arrived at an early hour, and after the church services was a guest at the McKinley home for several hours, till he left for the east on an afternoon train.

The Rev. Dr. Manchester, Maj. McKinley's pastor, in his prayer invoked divine blessings on the president of the United States and those elevated to exalted positions, and, referring to the president-elect in the congregation, invoked the blessings of a kind Providence upon him and upon those about to be called to counsel with him.

Congratulatory telegrams and letters continue to pour in.

M'KINLEY'S GENERAL POLICY.

Mark Hanna Says He Will Seek to Keep His Supporters United.

New York, Nov. 9.—The World says: "Mark Hanna gave the world the following outline of what he understands to be President-elect McKinley's general policy:

"I have had but comparatively brief conversation with Maj. McKinley since his election. But this much I know—he feels that he owes much to the patriotic democrats who prefer principle to strict party ties. Indiana, for instance, was unquestionably carried against fusion by democratic votes. He recognizes the very great service performed by democratic and independent newspapers during the campaign. Maj. McKinley will endeavor to see collected a great national party that will give prosperity to the country. He expects and hopes that men of all shades of former political belief will be united to this end. I have talked with some of the most influential of the old democratic leaders, and I am glad to say they are in accord with Maj. McKinley's hopes.

"The first movement he will make will be to obtain sufficient revenue to conduct the government. Business prosperity and stability demand that as soon as possible the government should be on a paying basis. To this end an extra session of congress will be necessary, and President McKinley will undoubtedly call one soon after his inauguration.

"As for myself, I am not after any office, and will endeavor to attend to private business affairs which need my personal supervision."

SILVER MEN WILL WORK.

Issue an Address Looking Toward the Campaign of 1900.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The campaign for the free coinage of silver will be waged with vigor during the next four years, in preparation for the election in 1900. The directors of the American Bimetallic union, who constitute the bulk of the silver leaders in three parties, have decided to maintain headquarters in this city from which to send out literature. The branch office at Chicago will be consolidated with the Washington office, but the San Francisco branch is to be continued. At the request of the directors, Gen. A. J. Warner, the president of the union, has issued an address to the silver leagues and bimetallic unions of the United States. The address concludes as follows:

"The battle for the restoration of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up their organizations and to continue the fight until the victory for the people is finally won. The noble fight made by our intrepid leader in the campaign just ended endears him to all who believe in the righteousness of our cause, and under his leadership we believe victory will be won in 1900."

How the Senate Will Stand.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 9.—Concerning the statement published Saturday morning that the republicans will not have enough votes in the national senate to pass an amendment to the revenue law to increase the tariff, Mr. Cummins, Iowa's national committeeman, said: "We will have in the senate forty-six 'sound money' senators and forty-four who are really for the free coinage of silver. Not all of the forty-four, however, will stand in the way of a revision of the revenue. We will have forty-seven who will vote for such a change as will increase the revenue, forty who will probably vote to add a free silver amendment to any law proposed upon that subject, and three who are doubtful. Assuming that these three are all against us, we will still have a clear majority to see that the government is provided with a sufficient revenue to meet all the demands made upon it."

BUTLER ISSUES A STATEMENT.

Says the People's Party Will Lead the Future Fight for Silver.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Senator Butler has issued a statement to the people, in which he reviews the position of his party upon the subject of free silver, and declares that it alone has stood for that principle for many years. Continuing Senator Butler says: "The administration of McKinley cannot bring prosperity to the American people. The gold standard and monopoly rule, to a continuation of which McKinley stands pledged, mean four more years of falling prices, four more years of lock-outs and strikes, four more years of reduced wages and idle labor. The position of the people's party in this great contest has convinced every patriotic American that the party can be trusted to stand for the principles of good government and the interests of the people under any and all circumstances. Therefore, the people's party will be the nucleus around which the patriotic hosts must gather to redeem a betrayed republic and to restore prosperity to an oppressed and outraged people."

Iowa Silver Men to Unite.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 9.—The democrats, populists and silver republicans of Iowa, through their respective state committees, have issued an address to the silver men of the state, touching on the result of the late election and urging silver men to have confidence in the future of their cause. The suggestion that there should be a closer union of silver forces is preliminary, it is understood, to a call for a conference of the state committees of the three organizations, to perfect a plan for consolidation under one central committee. It is impossible to fix the time for this conference, owing to the illness of Chairman Curry of the democratic committee.

Latest Returns from Wyoming.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 9.—Wyoming returns have been received from all but two precincts in the state, those being in Jackson's Hole, Uintah county, and estimated as giving McKinley electors and the republican state ticket 27 votes and the Bryan ticket 64. Unofficial returns are now in from practically all of the state except Big Horn county, and show the republicans ahead about 50 votes on one elector, and slightly behind on two, and on their congressional and state tickets. The republican state committee believes Big Horn county will give them sufficient majority to confirm their claims of electing one elector and congressman.

Claims 444 in Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—The following statement was given out last night from the republican headquarters: "Practically complete official returns give McKinley 444 plurality in Kentucky, unofficial advices indicating that the four missing counties will increase rather than decrease these figures. The republicans elect four members of congress and a judge of the highest court of the state for an eight-year term, and by the filling of vacancies have secured a majority of two in the general assembly on joint ballot, which insures a republican successor to Senator Blackburn."

Alabama to Choose a Senator.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9.—The general assembly of Alabama will convene on next Tuesday. The first two weeks will be devoted chiefly to the election of a senator to succeed Senator Pugh. Gov. Oates, Congressman Bankhead, and Gen. E. W. Pettus are the candidates, and they are showing about equal strength. Four-fifths of the legislature were elected as democrats and more than two-thirds of them are silver advocates. Pugh's successor will, therefore, probably be a silver man.

Indiana Official Figures.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—The official plurality of McKinley in Indiana, with official figures from eleven counties missing, is 19,357. Mount, republican candidate for governor, has about 27,000 plurality, owing to about 8,000 "middle-of-the-road" populists having voted their straight ticket. The official returns give the republicans fifty-one members of the lower house, a bare majority, enabling them to frame the apportionment bill and pass caucus legislation antedating the election law.

Will Elect a Republican.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 9.—The Commercial-Tribune's special from Frankfort, Ky., says: "There is no longer any talk of the republicans uniting with the gold democrats on Carlisle, Breckinridge or any other democrat to succeed Senator Blackburn. Now that the republicans are confident of a majority on joint ballot, they state that a republican will be elected senator. Gov. Bradley, Congressman Hunter, St. John Boyle and others are mentioned for the place."

Fred Grant in the Cabinet.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—It is reported here that Fred D. Grant, police commissioner of New York, will be made secretary of war by President McKinley. Grant was prominently mentioned as a candidate for vice president at the St. Louis convention, but a New Yorker was out of the question, because of the factional fight.

Indiana Roller Mills Burned.

Plymouth, Ind., Nov. 9.—The Zehner roller mills burned Sunday morning. Loss $15,000, no insurance.

SIX SAILORS DROWN AT MUSKEGON, MICH.

SCHOONER WAUKESHA SUC-CUMBS TO STORM KING.

Only Survivor Tells a Story Blaming the Captain—Crew of a Barge Have a Narrow Escape From Death During a Furious Gale But Are Finally Rescued.

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 9.—Under cover of the darkness and in the midst of a fierce storm, six men met their death off this harbor Saturday night from the three-masted schooner Waukesha. The story of the only survivor lays the blame upon the captain, whose name is not definitely known. This survivor is Frank Dulach. He does not know the names of any of the other members of the crew, which consisted of the captain, mate, cook, and four sailors, a total of seven. After being rescued Dulach was so weak that it was night before an intelligent story could be obtained from him. It was taken in the form of an affidavit before a magistrate at the station in order to show the full circumstances.

Coroner Vanderline has taken possession of the two bodies, and will hold an inquest tomorrow night. The Waukesha is a three-masted, schooner-rigged craft of 310 gross tons, 137½ feet long, beam 26 feet 5 inches, hold 11½ feet, and was built at Manitowoc in 1862. She was loaded with 600 tons of salt and thirty barrels of apples. She was one of the old fleet of "canal-boats," and, true to all tradition, she has taken almost her entire crew down with her in her last disaster. She was owned by F. H. Head of Chicago, and was formerly known as the Nabob. She had a valuation of $2,500, and was given an insurance rating of B1. Frank Dulach believes the captain's name was Duncan Corbett.

Perils of a Barge Crew.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The crew of the barge Charles Wall, which arrived in port last night at 9 o'clock, relates a story of terrible suffering on Lake Superior, where the barge was water-logged and tossed about by the waves before shelter was finally reached. The barge was in tow of the steamer Argo and a tremendous sea was running. The Argo could do nothing for the imperiled men on the Wall, and they were forced to seek refuge in the rigging to keep from being swept overboard by the waves. The Argo put back to Ashland for shelter, but not until the crew were completely exhausted from cold and exposure.

MAY SETTLE CUBA'S STATUS.

Ex-Consul Williams Coming from Spain After Secret Negotiations.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Morning Advertiser says: "It was reported in this city yesterday that the ex-consul-general to Havana, Ramon O. Williams, might be expected here from Europe in about ten days. While the fact cannot, for obvious reasons, be definitely learned, it is generally believed by his personal friends that Williams' visit to Madrid has been made as an agent of the United States with a view of making some arrangements by which a peaceable solution of the Cuban question might be brought about. It was even stated that Mr. Williams was authorized to favor annex-Gov. William R. Merriam for the island by the Cubans might be arranged, on the understanding that the United States would guarantee the payments to be another country. It will be recalled that this was substantially the basis of arrangement proposed by Gen. Grant at the time of Spain's last war with her colony."

Peoria Factories Start Up.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 9.—The American Glucose company, the largest manufacturing institution in the city, Saturday posted a notice to all its employees to report for duty Nov. 16. The notice further stated that at that time the wages of all employees would be advanced 10 per cent. The company gives employment to 600 men. The Peoria cordage works, the distilleries and bicycle factories are all preparing to resume operations this month.

Acquitted of the Murder of Dixon.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 9.—Saturday night, after a long examination, James Sprague was acquitted on the charge of murdering William H. Dixon. Dixon was shot and killed while going home about midnight on the night of Aug. 19 last. Sprague was arrested in Springfield, Ill., last week. He proved an alibi.

Merriam for the Treasury.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 9.—The Minneapolis Tribune believes that the state of Minnesota is entitled to recognition at the hands of the incoming administration, and editorially nominates ex-Gov. William R. Merriam for the treasury portfolio.

Will Hang Him If She Dies.

Lebanon, Ky., Nov. 9.—William Bean, the negro who assaulted Mrs. L. C. Clark last Tuesday, was captured and put in jail here Sunday. While the sheriff was bringing him here a mob took him and carried him before Mrs. Clark, who identified him. She is expected to die, but she pleaded with the crowd to let the law take its course. Negroes as well as whites threaten to lynch Bean if Mrs. Clark dies.

FRUIT OF THE WORK TO BE KNOWN TODAY

SETTLEMENT OF THE VENEZUELAN QUESTION.

In His Speech at the London Guildhall This Evening, Lord Salisbury Is Expected to Make An Important Announcement—London Paper Says Bryan's Defeat Is Fortunate.

Washington, Nov. 9.—It is rumored in diplomatic circles that Lord Salisbury may announce the settlement of the Venezuelan question at the mayor's banquet in Guildhall this evening. A year ago he made some sensational utterances at the banquet relative to the eastern situation, and it has been suggested that he may take occasion this evening to forswear the report of the United States Venezuelan commission by announcing the settlement of the boundary question.

It is generally believed here that Great Britain is ready to arbitrate the question of the boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana, and that Secretary Olney and President Cleveland are aware of that disposition. Ambassador Pauncefote is believed to be now in the process of closing arrangements with this government relative to a general arbitration treaty, and the terms indicate that, while the Venezuelan boundary question may not come under such a treaty it will be settled in a peaceful manner.

BRYAN'S DEFEAT FORTUNATE.

Professor Suess of Vienna Says It Advanced Real Bimetallism.

London, Nov. 9.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says: "Professor Suess, the greatest of European authorities on currency questions, writes a letter to the Neues Wiener Tageblatt, entitled, 'A Word of Warning to Europe's Diplomacy.' Professor Suess agrees with the English Bimetallic League that Mr. McKinley's election involves a triumph for international bimetalism, and regards Mr. Bryan's defeat as fortunate both for the United States and for the world in general."

Abdul Hamid Frightened.

London, Nov. 9.—Special dispatches to the morning papers from Constantinople all agree that the sultan has been much perturbed by the speech made by M. Hanotaux, the French minister of foreign affairs, and that it is on that account that he has granted concessions to M. Cambon, the French ambassador.

New Guns for the German Navy.

London, Nov. 9.—A Daily News dispatch from Berlin says that, as a result of a visit to the Krupp's ordnance factory, Emperor William has ordered that all German men-of-war shall henceforth be armed with 15, 21 and 24 centimeter quick-firing guns, in addition to the usual heavy artillery.

Ohio Coal Miners on Strike.

Jackson, O., Nov. 9.—All the coal mines here are idle, the men going out Saturday. President Hatchford of the Ohio miners is here holding conferences, and there was a mass meeting Sunday, but no settlement has been reached. The miners are resisting the 45-cent rate, saying they can barely live in that region at the 61-cent rate. It is feared that the controversy will cause a general strike of many thousands of miners in Ohio.

Big Vote for Woman Suffrage.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—The women who fought so well for the right of suffrage in California are highly elated at the result of their contest, as shown by the latest returns, which are far from complete. Incomplete returns from all counties show that the suffrage amendment received, in round numbers, 80,000 votes, while 95,000 were cast against it.

Jesuits Requested to Leave.

Panama, Colombia, Nov. 9.—The New York Herald's correspondent in Guayaquil telegraphs that the government of Ecuador has requested the Jesuit fathers settled in the eastern part of the republic to leave the country. It is alleged that they have been fomenting revolutionary movements.

Will Not Go to Prison Alone.

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 9.—George H. Morrison, the defaulting treasurer of Rensselaer county, whose trial for the larceny of $260,000 was commenced today before Justice Parker, has, as alleged, confessed his crime, implicating several well-known business men. He refused to affirm or deny the rumor.

Three Friends Seized.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 9.—The famous steam tug and alleged Cuban filibuster Three Friends was seized here Sunday on wire advices from the treasury department, charged with alleged violation of the neutrality laws. The Boutwell arrested her at Mayport, St. John's bar.

Result of Khilkoff's Visit.

London, Nov. 9.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Times with reference to the recent visit to the United States by Prince Khilkoff, Russian minister of communication, dwells upon the great increase of American trade with Russia.

NICKEL coffee pots, tea pots and tea kettles all sizes at Lowell's.

METHODIST MISSION WORK.

General Committee of the Church to Meet in Detroit Wednesday.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—The general missionary committee of the Methodist church meets in this city Wednesday to remain in session six or seven days. It is charged with many of the most important interests of the church. There will be present a large number of missionaries from the foreign field, home on furlough, fourteen representatives of the general conference districts and fourteen clerical and lay members chosen by the board of managers of the Missionary society in New York.

The committee appropriates funds to the various missions, and also fixes the sums to be raised the coming year in the conferences. The schedule of the present year, fixed at the Denver meeting, was $1,500,000, but, owing to hard times and political excitement the amount realized up to Oct. 1 last was $1,039,802. The floating debt of the society is about $175,000. From 1820 to 1895, inclusive, the Methodists raised for missions $30,795,462.83. The present division is 55 per cent for foreign and 45 for home missions. In the foreign field there are 811 churches, 1,437 day schools and $6,283 adherents. In the domestic field there are 754 churches, 52,000 scholars and about 70,000 adherents. The Woman's Foreign and Home Mission societies work independently of the general committee, have their own workers in scores of fields, and raise nearly $500,000 a year to support them.

Funeral of Charles A. Ewing.

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 9.—The funeral of the late Hon. Charles A. Ewing, chairman of the Illinois state central committee, Illinois gold-standard democracy, held at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon, was one of the largest and most impressive lately witnessed in Decatur. The church was crowded, and hundreds were unable to enter. The members of the Macon county bar, court officials, Mayor Conklin and the city council and over 200 members of the Decatur "Sound-Money club" were present. The burial was in Greenwood cemetery.

Jealousy Leads to Murder.

Huntingdon, Pa., Nov. 9.—During a drinking bout between the Italians at Robertsdale, a mining town in the lower part of this county, late Saturday night Peter Venzelona was brutally murdered. His slayers, Lewis, Lawrence and Daniel Cheras and Chilian and Alexander Vanance, were lodged in jail here. The alleged murderers used pins and stones on their victim, whose head was literally beaten into a jelly. Jealousy over a girl is said to have prompted the crime.

Boom for "Farmer Allerton."

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—The live stock men of Omaha and Kansas City and the west generally have inaugurated a campaign to secure "Farmer" Samuel Allerton the position of secretary of agriculture in Mr. McKinley's cabinet. Harvey Ingerson has received a communication from Secretary Baker of the National Live Stock Exchange asking him to confer with the members of the executive committee of the local exchange on the subject.

Kansas Populists Have a Majority.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 9.—Complete returns have been received on the legislature of Kansas. The populists can elect a United States senator without the aid of the silver democrats and free silver republicans. The populists have a majority on joint ballot of nine over all opposition. Silver democrats will not be considered in the election of a senator or state printer. The latter office pays $8,000 a year.

Plan of Government for Cuba.

New York, Nov. 9.—Anticipating the early evacuation of Cuba by Spain, the Cuban leaders of New York are taking steps to form a constitution for the republic. A preliminary organization, with this work in hand, has already been formed, and in a few days the organization will be made permanent.

German Bark Lost at Sea.

Quebec, Ont., Nov. 9.—A private cable announces the loss at sea of the German bark George Linck, Capt. Var-seloo, which sailed from Quebec Oct. 2 for Grimsby with a cargo of timber and deals. The crew was rescued and the men are on the ship Gen. Gordon bound for London.

Storm Has a Wide Sweep.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—Specials from points in South Dakota report a remarkably heavy fall of snow for this season of the year. The snow has drifted and railway trains are impeded. Chamberlain and Miller report heavy loss to stock and much suffering as a result of the severe weather.

Go to Work at Niles, Mich.

Niles, Mich., Nov. 9.—The Dowagiac manufacturing company, the largest drill works in the county, employing over 200 men, and the Round Oak stove works, employing 500 men, started up today, giving employment to all their old men and many new hands.

Snively Is Defeated by 2,580.

Lincoln, Ill., Nov. 9.—Official returns from twenty-nine out of thirty-five counties in the central grand division insure the election of A. D. Cadwallader, rep., of this city, as clerk of the supreme court, over Snively, by a majority of 2,580.

OSHKOSH MAN'S AIM WAS PRETTY GOOD

CONGRESSMAN ELECT WINGS A BURGLAR.

This Morning Blood Was Found On the Steps and Window, Showing that The Balls Caught Their Mark—Neenah's Last Pioneer Is Called Home.

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 9.—[Special]—Burglars entered Congressman-elect Davison's house last night, and were going up the stairs, when they awakened Mr. Davidson. He fired two shots down stairs, and the robbers disappeared. This morning blood stains were found on the steps and at a window. The robbers had previously entered J. L. Tuttle's residence and secured $200.

Neenah Pioneer Is Dead.

Neenah, Wis., Nov. 9.—[Special]—George H. Mansur, the last of Neenah's pioneers, and the first white man to settle here, died this morning, aged eighty-seven years.

IOWA'S EXTRA SESSION.

Will Convene Jan. 19—Amendment to Be Offered by Silver Men.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 9.—Gov. F. M. Drake has issued a proclamation calling an extra session of the Iowa state legislature. The assembly is called to meet on Jan. 19. Although the business to be considered by the special session appears to be limited by the governor to the consideration of the new code and to one or two other matters, yet there is a generally accepted theory that the assembly may take up any business which it may consider expedient.

The silver men have already prepared for submission an amendment of the election laws making it a felony for men to enter into or publish the fact of making contracts contingent upon the result of an election, and making it a felony for employers to condition the employment or wages of persons hired upon the result of an election.

Declares Pullman Is a Failure.

Paris, Nov. 9.—At a crowded meeting at the Association of Civil Engineers of France an address was delivered by Ernest Hecht on "The Town of Pullman and the Condition of the Working Classes in the United States." Mr. Hecht declared that the results of his inquiry on behalf of the government show that the town of Pullman, Ill., must from the workman's point be declared "a failure." Judging from the discussion which followed this opinion was shared by many of the French engineers present.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's Funeral.

New York, Nov. 9.—Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt's funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Bartholomew's church, of which Mrs. Vanderbilt was a member. There will be a full choral service at the church. The interment will take place at the Moravian cemetery, in the Vanderbilt mausoleum. Cornelius Vanderbilt's health continues to improve and his complete recovery is only a question of time.

Harrison Appears as Counsel.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 9.—Ex-President Harrison appeared here today in the United States circuit court of appeals in the case of Charles Hamlin against the Toledo, Kansas City and St. Louis Railroad company and Continental Trust company of New York. Charles W. Fairbanks of Indianapolis appears in the same case against the ex-president. Judge John H. Doyle of Toledo also makes an argument in the case, as will Edward C. Henderson of New York.

Offers to Pay Bryan's Expenses.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 9.—Chas. D. Lane, part owner of the Utica gold mine, announces that he will give William J. Bryan financial support in his advocacy of bimetalism. The Californian will see to it that Mr. Bryan's traveling expenses are paid and that the living expenses of himself and family are paid during the campaign of education which he proposes to conduct during the next four years.

Want Millions for Damages.

Paris, Nov. 9.—The Matin announces that Sidney O'Danna has arrived in Paris and intends to bring an action in the French courts against the German embassy, claiming 37,650,000 francs damages. O'Danna has just finished a term in prison in Berlin on a charge of intriguing to bring about war between France and Germany. He contends that he was unjustly sentenced.

Outlook Bright at Duluth.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 9.—The industrial and trade outlook in Duluth is bright. The Rockefeller iron mines have already resumed operations on a winter basis, and President Baker of the Minnesota Iron company is in Chicago to arrange for similar action at his properties. Independent mines are resuming work.

Bliss Will Have Support.

New York, Nov. 9.—Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the republican national committee will have the support of the republican organization in this state in his candidacy for secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of President-elect McKinley.

DR. HALSEY SPEAKS OF CATHOLIC CREED

SEEK NOT FOR EVIL BUT FOR GOOD.

Attempts to Array Class Against Class, or Church Against Church Should Be Nipped in the Bud—We Must
All Live Together and Should Look To the Common Welfare.

"What Should be the Attitude of Protestant Churches Toward the Catholic Church?" was the subject of Rev.
Dr. Sabin Halsey's sermon at the Court Street M. E. church last night.
He said:

Whatever peculiar views you may entertain and however widely you may differ from the position I take in this sermon, still I am sure the subject under discussion will command the closest attention of every thoughtful person present. I think it is a subject not only of special interest but also because of its bearings upon the peace and harmony of the people, of special importance. Two simple propositions prepare the way for the discussion of the theme selected.

(a.) First, the Catholic church is here in our midst as a religious power well organized and fully equipped for specific service. If history is accepted as a reliable source of information, then she has existed for centuries and persistently and faithfully sought to accomplish her mission to the human family. I go even further and say, that from all visible signs, the loyalty and devotion of her adherents, the Catholic church is here to stay and hold before men what she believes to be the truth as related to their salvation. Nations have lived and perished, kings have come and gone, but this church has pushed its way into every part of the earth surviving kings and nations, living to tell the story of their overthrow and ruin. I thought then deals not with the dead past, but the living present, not simply with an historic church, but with a church recognized as a present power in moulding the thoughts and fashioning the lives of millions of people. To her they yield obedience and at her consecrated altars offer their devotions. No one questions their loyalty and devotion, their enthusiasm for the principles of faith.
This at least must be admitted by candid men. It is not a question of theory, but of facts.

Prejudice Blinds the Eye

(b.) Second, as a rule it is difficult to fairly discuss such a theme as I have selected because of the deep seated prejudices in the hearts of many protestants against the Catholic church.
This blinds the eyes to the truth.

(c.) It is not difficult to illustrate this fact. If you are prejudiced against an individual it is impossible to do him justice. His faults will be magnified and proclaimed to the world while the tongue will be silent as the grave with reference to his many virtues. Prejudice dominates multitudes of people.

(d.) With the large majority prejudice against the Catholic church began very early in life and it has been nursed to gigantic proportions by the efforts of those who no doubt believed they were right. I can remember when I trembled with fear if I met a Catholic priest, but as the years passed away and no harm came to me this fear died. I believe it is now buried out of sight. To rise above prejudice in the discussion of any theme, to look steadily at the merits of a question, and recognize the fact that there may be virtue and truth in systems of faith we do not accept is commendable to say the least.

(e.) The objection may be raised in the minds of some that the Catholic church is prejudiced against Protestantism and that some bitter things have been said but that has nothing whatever to do with my attitude. If in business transactions or in social life one man wrongs me that sad experience does not give me a right to wrong him! It is not now an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. Kindness is the only permissible retaliation under the gospel.

Answer the Question.

With these propositions briefly outlined I am ready to give my answer to the question, What should be the attitude of the Protestant churches toward the Catholic church, or the attitude of Protestants in this age of the world toward Catholics. The answers will contain my honest convictions and though they may not at first meet with the approval of all, I ask you to carefully weigh them and give me credit for purity of motive.

1. First, a negative answer may help us to grasp what seems to me a clearly defined truth. It is always possible to receive truth at the point of a negation and truth is everything in a world full of subtle error which works ruin.

1. That attitude should never be heated antagonism, opposition marked by the bitterness of strife and cruel persecution, calling hard names thus wakening to life and power the depraved passions of the heart which when thus awakened inspire men and women to the performance of deeds that in sober moments they deplore and wish they could atone for the results.

(a.) Some people seem to be born with the spirit of cruelty in their hearts they are always spoiling for a fight. Some children in the home life are pugilistic and always in trouble. There are boys who never pass a dog without giving him a kick, who never see a bird without throwing a stone. So it is not strange that we find men who are always watching for an opportunity to pitch into something and somebody and thus keep society in a condition of feverish unrest from morning till night. But such a disposition is unfortunate and its possessor to be pitied.

Combattiveness Not a Grace

(b.) But we gain nothing in the kingdom of God by throwing stones at those who do not agree with us.
The cause of righteousness does not win in the estimation of those who are not counted as Christians by pursuing such a course. Combattiveness may not be the highest test of Christian graces.

(c.) In the divine controversy with the nations of earth the antagonistic method as we use the term does not prevail. God wins by the exercise of infinite patience, infinite love and mercy. Behold the long suffering of our God. Behold divine love and mercy incarnated to teach man this great truth. Study the life of the great teacher who endured contradiction and reproach and persecution at the hands of his enemies and finally death on the cross as furnishing the world an example.

(d.) Even if the infinite does employ a method in dealing with sinners that corresponds to the term antagonism we have no right to adopt it without special command.

(e.) It excites depraved passions, stirs up religious prejudices and erects barriers between us not easily broken down and by so doing makes it impossible to accomplish good. How is it possible to benefit a man while he is in anger?

(f.) One other reason weighs with me and it is this: In the providence of God who makes no mistake our lot is cast together. Side by side we must live and toil. No power can set aside one part of a city, or a township and say this belongs exclusively to Catholics, and this exclusively to protestants. Catholics shall engage in this kind of business and Protestants in that. We are side by side a mixed multitude from all nations with a great variety of form of worship and part of our duty as citizens and Christians is to study how to live together in peace. I am absolutely certain that this principle is correct and its illustrations by all classes and faiths necessary in order to insure the best.

Nip Trouble in the Bud

(g.) Any effort then which aims to disturb the peace and harmony which ought to exist between members of a great family, that seeks to set church against church, class against class, neighbors against neighbors, is not simply to be deprecated, but to be nipped in the bud, no matter where its originate.

(h.) Second, a few positive affirma-tions are now proper and I ask you to weigh them with the facts presented, not because I make them but because they contain the truth.

1. First, we should recognize the Catholic church as a Christian church and entitled to respect as such in every community where she raises her standards. Why this statement?

(a.) Because of great doctrines taught. (a) She believes doctrine of sin. (b) Doctrine of salvation from sin. (c) Doctrine rewards and punishment. (d) Doctrine of the Eternity of Christ. (e) Doctrine of resurrection body. (f) Doctrine of inspiration of the Bible. (g) Take the Apostles Creed which (b) Any church which holds that, etc.

2. Certain fruits which substantiate the claim. (a) As a result of such teachings there are earnest, pure minded Christians in the Catholic church. I am sure there is not a person here tonight who will question such a statement.

Some of the richest spiritual truths in prose and poetry have come from members of this church. Who ever gave the world a better book than Thomas A. Kempis, or more spiritual hymns sung by all Christians than the Bernhard's, Faber and Newman?

Tested By Sacrifice

(b.) Tested by lives of sacrifices throughout the world then we are forced to admit that in this church there are illustrious examples which challenge the admiration of those.

(a.) In a recent article in Zion's Herald, a Methodist paper, there is an account of a dedication of a Catholic church to which every Protestant minister in the place was cordially invited.
At the opening services of the World's Fair, Catholic and Protestant clergymen took part and said nothing about their differences of faith. At a flag raising in our city a Protestant clergyman offered prayer and a Catholic Priest pronounced the Apostolic benediction. My friends, the world does move and you and I cannot afford to be left in the rear.

(b.) Another fact of a recent date has opened my eyes. A new society has come into existence and come to stay. It is called the anti-saloon league to distinguish it from all political and sectarian organizations. Catholic Priests unite in this organization with Protestant clergymen against intemperance and for the rescue of those who are under it. The world does move and we need to wake up or some morning we will find ourselves in the rear. God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform in establishing his kingdom of righteousness in the earth.

Fourth, our attitude as Protestant Christians should be that of respect and courtesy. Two or three things are implied in this statement. I deem of sufficient importance to emphasize in this connection and press home:

Proud of the Name

(a.) First, respect for the name this church bears. It is a name she may well be proud of, for it has come down through centuries of persecution and conflict. I do not wonder that a true Catholic feels hurt when some other name is used as a substitute. It is not the spirit of respect which prompts anyone to speak of this church as the Romish church, or the Popish church. We cherish the name of Wesley because we believe he was a good man and grasped the great earning truths of the gospel, but you and I would not be pleased if people about us called us the Wesleyites. That would be interpreted as a slur. Our Catholic friends have feelings and we ought to respect their feelings when speaking of a church dear to their heart.

(b.) There should be respect for their services. They have a right to build their temples of worship and assemble at any hour of the day or night to engage in their religious services.
They have a right to use such symbols as in the judgment of the ministry are helpful to the soul. I wish Protestantism paid more attention to the symbols of the church, that the cross meant more to them, that holy days were observed as such in the spirit of prayer, etc.

5. But what of certain other things not mentioned tonight? I fancy some one has been saying to himself since I began this sermon that the Catholic church has some things we as Protestants cannot accept; errors have crept into her body politic,—what about these?

Seeks Points of Agreement

(a.) First, it has not been my purpose to point out faults, or errors, or call attention to points of difference in polity and sacraments. If this were necessary, I believe I could do it in such a Christian, charitable spirit as to command the respect of every Catholic in the community. I have never experienced any difficulty in conversing with Catholics on any point of difference, and have never experienced any trouble growing out of such conversations. It makes all the difference in the world how any subject is introduced, and then the spirit in which it is discussed. It makes a difference how any one approaches you. If he approaches with a smile, with kindness beaming from the eye, and extends the hand of greeting, one set of feelings is brought into exercise. If he approaches you with a frown, with vengeance flashing in the eye, and extends his fist, another.

(b.) My sole purpose for the hour has,
I think, been to find points of agreement instead of points of wrangle over, to no one's spiritual profit. I believe the interests we represent as Catholics and Protestants are of such magnitude, as vital, that we cannot afford to waste time and exhaust strength in wrangling. We are here on earth for a brief period, the days, months and years are rapidly passing away. Let us drop all hard names, bury out of sight unfounded prejudices, draw the mantle of Christian charity over each other's infirmities, live together in peace, bear each other's burdens, and die in the faith that He who cannot make mistakes will give us our reward.

I close with the most tender feeling toward all, whether they agree with me or disagree, with a prayer that the spirit of truth may possess us and guide us to the end of life's brief journey, and that after the sleep of death
we may awaken in His likeness.

AT THE PEOPLES' CHURCH.

Rev. V. E. Southworth On What the Majority Owe to the Minority.

Rev. V. E. Southworth read a pulpit editorial on "What the Minority and the Majority Owe to Each Other," at All Souls church yesterday. He said, in part:

In every great campaign questions of the day are raised for discussion.
The citizens on one side and the citizens on the other side do their part to have the question thoroughly considered. At length the day of settlement arrives. The opinions of the people are tabulated, and the result is fixed for a term of years.

Now arises the question, what has the minority a right to expect from the majority, and what has the majority a right to expect from the minority?

Are they to treat each other as enemies? Are they to despise each other? Are they to defy each other?
Are the victors at liberty to heap contempt and derision upon the vanquished?

Are the vanquished to allow the spirit of resentment and bitterness to poison their patriotism? Are there to be harsh words, mean insinuations and ugly threats? And for four years more are "the administration" and
"the opposition" to keep up the dreary war of abuse?

This is the usual outcome of a hard fought campaign. Is it to be so today?
That depends upon the magnanimity of the victors and the patience and loyalty of the defeated.

There are certain courtesies of the pugilistic prize-ring by which the successful contestant graciously honors the defeated and at least the appearance of high-mindedness and generosity is maintained.

Spirit of Equality.

Would it not be well for American citizens to maintain at least a spirit of equally courteous consideration toward each other? We must always remember the importance and necessity of a minority in any republican or democratic form of government. The minority is the balance wheel of the government.

Four years ago there was a minority on the other side. Its power and importance can be realized today.
For four years it has been actively at work, doing its part, exercising its legitimate functions, cultivating public sentiment, watching the administration, and losing no opportunity to call the public attention to any weakness or error of the party in power.

And so today there is a minority;
a minority that will be vigilant, active in the days that are to come. A minority that will be on the alert to call

SUDDEN DEATH AT BELOIT.

Mrs. E. A. Hodge Passes Away Without Warning—Death of Mrs. Quackenbush.
Beloit, Wis., Nov. 9.—Mrs. E. A.
Hodge expired almost instantly. Her husband retired early, and Mrs. Hodge did not go to bed until quite late. At a quarter of eleven o'clock she called him and asked him to summon a physician, as she was very ill. He hastened to dress, and slipped over to William Quinn's, a neighbor, to ask Mrs. Quinn to stay with his wife while he harnessed his horse to go after a doctor.
Mrs. Quinn made all possible haste to get to Mrs. Hodge's bedside, and when she reached her she was breathing her last. Mrs. Hodge leaves besides her husband, four sons and one daughter, all but Herbert being of tender age,
who need a mother's care.

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Andrew Quackenbush, aged twenty-four years, died of typhoid fever, at her home on Highland avenue.

Everybody welcome to all they want of it at this price.
This soap has been made especially for us by the Cincinnati Soap Co., whose soaps have been the standard for over a quarter of a century, and to introduce their soap thoroughly they permit us to sell it TWO CAKES FOR 5 CENTS, for a limited time.
This gives us a power to save money for all persons.

IT IS SO CHEAP THAT IT CAN BE NO CHEAPER.

And so good that it can be no better—the rich, the poor, the learned, and the unlearned meet on one level; the poor can afford a nice Toilet Soap

$1 BLACK SILKS--

There are a great many women who feel that they would be willing to pay about $1 a yard for silk for a dress, skirt, or waist, as the case may be. We are prepared for just such situations and are today offering the grandest BLACK SILKS at $1 a yard that were ever offered over any counter.

We show fully 40 pieces in Luxors, Mascots, Armures, Failles, Duchess, Gros Grains, Rhadames, &c. This store never contained better values in black silks, and a few moments in their atmosphere will easily prove all we claim, only you'll say we are too mild in our claims; but we always prefer to un-derstate the facts, knowing what the future will bring forth. That very thing has had much to do with the growth of this great business.

FASCINATORS--

We placed a large import order for them early in the year. Our order was as follows:

43 dozen to retail at 12½c.
26 dozen to retail at 20c.
26 dozen to retail at 35c.

In all 1080 doily head coverings, black, white, pink, blue and cardinal.
The one we have at 12½c. is 24 in. square, nicely made, handsome design, and would sell at 20c.
about as quick.

We don't beg for trade; we compel it.
No one can turn a deaf ear to the music of our prices.

For 25c a bleached Turkish Bath
Towel worth easily 40c.

For 37½c short ends Table Linen, in desirable black patterns, all colors, extra heavy; lengths 2 to 5 yards. You save 12½c a yard, for it's sold everywhere at 50 cents.

For 68c, 30 dozen Kid Gloves,—worth 85c to $1.25.

We sell Dr. Denton's Sleeping Garments. We sell Dr. Jaeger's Sanitary Underwear. We show a large new line of Mocha Mittens for women and children.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1781—Mark Twain, poet, author of "The Prince and the Pauper," born in New Castle-on-Tyne; died 1896.

1800—Robert Dale Owen, author and statesman, born in Glasgow, died near Lake George, N. Y., 1877.

1850—John Middleton Clayton, American statesman, principal in the Bulwer-Clayton treaty, died in Dover, Del., born 1796.

1872—Great Boston fire; 65 acres of the business district burned over; loss, $80,000,000. Boston suffered from three extensive fires during the colonial days. The greatest of these was in 1780, when 350 buildings were destroyed. In 1847 over 100 buildings were burned in the north end. The fire of 1872 broke out on the corner of Summer and Kingston streets early in the evening, and before it was stopped swept over 65 acres, leaving the district bounded by Summer, Milk, Broad and Washington streets a smoking chaos of ruins. Many lives were lost.

1886—Professor Herman August Hagen of Harvard college, well known entomologist, died at Cambridge, Mass.; born 1817. Annie Pixley, popular American actress, died in London.

CHILD INVENTORS.

Origin of Some of Our Useful Mechanical Appliances.

That many children have great ingenuity of mind in fashioning toys of various kinds is well known, says the New York Recorder. That they have frequently turned this quality to good use in the invention and construction of some of our most useful mechanical appliances is attested by the following instances: The children of a Dutch spectacle maker happened to be playing one day with some of their father's glasses in front of the shop door. Placing two of the glasses together they peeped through them and were exceedingly astonished to see the weathercock of the neighboring steeple brought within a short distance of their eyes. They were naturally puzzled, and called their father to see the strange sight. When the spectacle maker looked through the glasses he was no less surprised than the children had been. He went indoors and thought the matter over, and then he occurred to him that he might construct a curious new toy which would give people a good deal of amusement. Not long after the telescope was an accomplished fact. A poor Swiss named Argand invented a lamp with a wick fitted into a hollow cylinder, thus giving a supply of oxygen to the interior as well as the exterior of the circular flame. At first Argand used the lamp without a glass chimney, the invention of which important adjunct would doubtless have been delayed for some time had it not been for the thoughtless experiments of his little brother. One day when Argand was busy in his work-room, and sitting before the burning lamp, this boy was amusing himself by placing a bottomless oil flask over different articles. Suddenly he placed it upon the flame of the lamp, which instantly shot up the circular neck of the flask with increased brilliancy. Argand did not allow such a suggestive occurrence to escape him. The idea of the lamp chimney almost immediately came into his head, and in a short time his invention was perfected.

Keeping a Prince's Memory Green.

In the private apartments of the queen at Windsor castle there are many touching evidences of the manner in which the memory of the prince consort is revived by her majesty. The door of the queen's boudoir is inscribed: "This chamber was altered and decorated under the superintendence of H. R. H. the prince consort, in the twenty-fourth year of the reign of Queen Victoria." Everything in the chamber remains as it was arranged by the prince thirty-six years ago, and a conspicuous object under a glass shade is the bouquet he presented to her majesty on her wedding morning, Feb. 10, 1840. In the vestibule of the long corridor leading to the queen's private apartments there is a beautiful life-size marble group of her majesty and the prince consort, which was executed by William Theed shortly after the prince's death in December, 1861. The prince is arrayed as a knight. The queen has her arms around his neck, and is gazing lovingly up into his face, while he, with his right arm extended, points on high. Underneath is the appropriate line from Goldsmith: "He allures to brighter world, and leads the way." The group is covered with lace, and stands before a bright red background, which adds very considerably to its striking effect.

She Got a Seat.

"Of course, I don't expect to get a seat," said the large lady, who was hanging to the strap. "And I don't think I ought to have one, neither. It ain't no more than right when a man has spent the last nickel he's got for a ride to make him stand up; indeed it ain't."

Seven men arose, each fingling some silver in his pocket, as if to resent the imputation.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Tribute.

The worried-looking business man turned in his chair and gloomily looked after the clerk as he went through the door.

"That," he said, in tones of suppressed emotion, "is the most reliable man in this establishment."

"Why, he's one that's always making trouble."

"That's it. Whenever I give him a piece of work I can rely implicitly on his doing it wrong."—Washington Star.

Tassel Down Night Dresses

Probably as many colds and as much sickness results from improper clothing at night while sleeping as any other way. One sleeps much more comfortably in a tassel down night dress than in any other similar robe. It is far more easy to guard against and avoid colds than it is to cure them after once contracting. One of the best ways then to keep the health is by having proper sleeping garments. We are selling Amoskeag tassel down outing flannel night dresses for ladies at 94 cents each and for children at 71 cents each. They are made in the best possible way and are worth $1 easily. The Companion Calendar

It is said that the expenses of making the Companion Art Calendar for 1897 was so great that had it been published in the usual quantity it could not be sold for less than one dollar. Four beautiful female figures are reproduced on four folding pages.

Each figure is lithographed in twelve colors, being a true reproduction of the original water color painting, which was selected because of its excellence of design and charm of color and tone. The size of each of the four folding pages is 10 1/2 by 6 inches.

It is by far the best piece of color work the Companion has ever offered. Both as a calendar and as a gem of the lithographer's art, it is so attractive that it becomes a valuable addition to the mantel or center table of any room. It is given free to all new subscribers sending $1.75 to the Companion for the year 1897, who receive also the paper free from the time the subscription is received till January 1, 1897.

Celebrating in 1897 its seventy-first birthday, the Companion offers its readers many exceptionally brilliant features. Fully two hundred of the most famous men and women of both continents have contributed to the next year's volume of the paper. More Hope in British India.

Bombay, Nov. 9.—The earl of Elgin, viceroy of India, speaking at a banquet at Alwar on the famine outlook, said that recent news from the Punjab and the northwest provinces was somewhat reassuring. The relief measures adopted in the northwest provinces had encouraged the people, who were facing the situation creditably and hopefully.

Gale on the British Coast.

London, Nov. 9.—A severe gale prevailed on the English coasts on Saturday night and there were many wrecks, accompanied by exciting lifeboat and rocket rescues.

Floods in Italy.

Rome, Nov. 9.—The floods in Italy have been renewed. The town of Rimini, on the Adriatic, has been submerged and the river Cerfone has overflowed.

Army of the Tennessees.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 9.—The twenty-eighth reunion of the Society of the Army of the Tennessees will be held in St. Louis on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 18 and 19, 1896. The annual address will be delivered by Major General O. O. Howard.

Rolling Mill Busy.

Toledo, O., Nov. 9.—The Maumee Rolling Mill company will increase its force by 200 men. The sheet iron mills have been closed for several months. The men are all skilled workmen and will go to work at the regular scale.

Silver Men Are Angry.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 9.—Silver democrats in this state are keeping up the fight against the gold democrats. They will not recognize them as democrats and may force the latter to maintain a separate organization.

To Send More Troops to Cuba.

London, Nov. 9.—A Madrid dispatch to the Standard says that the Spanish government will send 20,000 recruits to Cuba before the middle of December.

Loose clothes and downy cushions bring only a negative sort of comfort to the woman who is suffering with some disease or derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Some clothes and some positions make the pain and discomfort seem less. Perhaps the nerves are most affected and this in turn disturbs the digestion. Nothing will ever completely relieve, but a radical cure. The start of so-called "female complaints" may be a very slight thing indeed. It may be that in the beginning some small hygienic measures would stop the trouble. Certainly at this time, a little bit of the right medicine would stop it. When the trouble becomes worse, it is harder to cure, but still it can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will positively cure any trouble of this character. It may be absolutely relied upon. It affords lasting relief to a woman whose natural modesty has kept her from consulting physicians.

WAS NOT GUILTY THE COURT SAID

N. C. SCHELLENGER DIS- CHARGED TODAY.

Says His Check Was Presented to the Bank Before He Had Time to Fix Up An Overdraft—Other Cases That Came Up Before the Court.

N. C. Schellenger of Belvidere, Ill., walked from the municipal court, a free man, this morning. Schellenger, it will be remembered, was the man who was arrested on a charge of having secured goods under false pretenses, by giving a check which was refused at the bank, in payment for a check rein and whip bought of E. W. Palmer, at Sadler's harness shop. He was before Judge Phelps this morning, but the court held the evidence insufficient, and discharged the defendant. "I had made a deposit at the bank," Mr. Schellenger said today, "and had overdrawn my account. I intended to fix it up before the check was presented, but was arrested before I had an opportunity to do so. I knew the matter would come out all right, so when I was arrested I did not demand requisition papers, but at once came to Janesville with the sheriff."

One Legged Man Jailed.
James McGuire, a one legged man from Madison, was taken to jail yesterday by Chief Acheson, on the charge of receiving money under false pretenses. Mr. McGuire's leg had been cut off near the ankle, and in order to make the case a "paying one," he tied a piece of red flannel up the "stump," for the purpose, he said, to "make it look bloody," so as to arouse the sympathy of the public. Herman Sliever, of the town of Rock, who is charged with stealing J. J. Cunningham's bicycle, was arraigned in the municipal court this afternoon, and his trial was begun, but at 4 o'clock, it had not been concluded.

Charles Schumacher was before the court this morning and was fined $5 and costs for being drunk.

CHARLES HOLT FULL OF JOY.

He Sees the Effects of Early Missionary Work in Rock County.

Charles Holt, whose name is a prominent one in early Rock county journalism, writes to The Gazette:

"Hurrah for 'Old Rock'!" The good seed I helped sow is bearing glorious fruit. Hurrah, to, for Wisconsin. She is a jewel of the first water. We have done a big job in Illinois. Hurrah for everybody except the popocates. I would have liked to help you celebrate but rheumatic feet and giving-out knees have kept me at home and kept me away from my old stamping grounds where running around would be necessary to the full enjoyment of a visit to old friends.

Yours Rejoicingly,
CHARLES HOLT.

THREE FACTORIES START UP

Hanson Co., A. C. Kent and Machine Company Begin Work.

The machinery in three of Janesville's leading factories started to hum this morning for the first time in many months—and all because of the election of William McKinley.

The Hanson Furniture factory started up, with a number of good orders on hand while their traveling men were sent out in all directions.

The A. C. Kent corn planter factory is once more in operation and Mr. Kent stated this morning that the force would be doubled later on.

The Janesville Machine company's force was also augmented this morning.

CHICAGO: COUPLE WEDDED HERE

Tremendous Shoe Selling.

The past week has been a busy one with us in shoes and one that will go down in history, we think. Many people wondered and asked if we were having a closing out sale, the crowd of people that thronged the store all day reminded one of a closing sale. Of course the secret of our immense business was the cash system and low prices that prevail throughout the stock. People are not slow in catching on to bargains of such worth as we offer. When $5.00 shoes are at $4.25 and $4.50 and the same ratio is prevalent all along the line, there is an object in buying shoes at our store. A. Richardson Shoe Co.

THOUGHT IT RIGHT TO USE HIS NAME

TWO BELOIT MEN HAD QUEER IDEAS.

Wealthy Farmer Owed Them, They Claimed, So They Signed His Name to Checks, and Got Arrested—Juda Postoffice Burglarized For the Third Time.

Beloit, Nov. 9.—[Special]—Mat and Dan Sheehan, two brothers, passed three checks for $1 each on Ball & Co's. The check purported to be signed by Frank Hannabs, a wealthy farmer, but the firm became suspicious and caused the arrest of the young men. They were bound over in the sum of $500 each Saturday night. The young men claim that Mr. Hannabs owes them money and they did not think they were doing anything wrong in signing his name to the orders.

Burglars kicked in the door of Uncle Sam's postoffice at Juda last night and stole $15 in money and stamps, and two boxes of cigars. Janesville police were notified to be on the lookout for thieves. This is the third time within a few months that the post office at Juda has been broken into, the robbers being each time well rewarded for their trouble. The crime was not discovered until early this morning. The citizens are now "up in arms" and it has been decided to appoint a night watchman. The robbers are thought to have been local characters.

LINES.

Like a tiny spot of light piercing through the dusty gloom
Comes her little laughing face through the shadows of my room.
And my pen forgets its way as it hears her pattering tread,
While her prattling treble tones chase the thoughts from out my head.
She is queen and I her slave, one who loves her and obeys,
For she rules her world of home with imperious baby ways.
In she dances, calls me "Dear!" turns the pages of my books,
Throws herself upon my knee, takes my pen with laughing looks,
Makes disorder reign supreme, turns my papers upside down,
Draws me cabalistic signs, safe from fear of
any frown,
Crumples all my verses up, pleased to hear the crackling sound,
Makes them into balls and then flings them
all upon the ground.
Suddenly she flits away, leaving me alone again
With a warmth about my heart and a brighter, clearer brain.
And, although the thoughts return that her coming drove away,
The remembrance of her laugh lingers with me through the day.
And it chances, as I write, I may take a crumpled sheet,
On the which, God knoweth why, read my fancies twice as sweet.
—N. B. B. in London Spectator.

A DECEPTION.

To this day I live in perpetual fear of meeting him, indeed I am continually haunted with the belief that he is scouring the earth for me, thirsting for revenge, and that is why I shun the haunts of men and live a solitary, secluded life, only venturing out at dusk and wearing a beard (which doesn't suit me) and blue glasses (which I don't need) as a means of disguise. Of course it should never have happened. I admit that. A word of explanation and all would have been well, and I should not now be living with the sword of Damocles hanging over my head. But I let the opportunity slip and plunged myself into an intrigue which may yet end in bloodshed.
It began with a very simple mistake on my part. I was lounging on the pier at Eastsea one fine morning in September, listening to the grand selection from the "Bohemian Girl" (they play this every day at Eastsea) and watching the promenaders, when my eyes fell on a young lady who was sitting in a quiet corner reading a novel. I could not see her face, for it was hidden by a crimson parasol, but her general appearance at once told me that it was Flo Beresford, one of the prettiest girls I know, and,
inwardly congratulating myself, I rose and crossed to her.
So absorbed was she in her book that she did not hear me approach, and to attract her attention (I know her very well) I playfully tapped the sunshade with my paper. She looked up in a moment, and then, to my horror, I saw I had made a mistake; it was not Flo, but a stranger.
I stood paralyzed, trying to frame an apology, but before I could get the words out I was amazed to see a lovely smile of evident recognition and a still lovelier blush overspread a charming face.
"George!" she cried in a joyous tone.
"This is a surprise. When did you come? But there, sit down."
Now, I know that this was where I made the fatal error. It was evident that I had a double, and equally evident that she was mistaking me for him.
I know I ought to have undeceived her, to have murmured a few words of apology, raised my cap and gone away, but I did not do this. Perhaps it was her eyes or her mouth or her hair. I don't know. But, anyway, she drew her skirts aside, and I sat down.
"What made you come so—so suddenly?" she asked.
"What!" then recovering myself.
"Why, you, of course." She blushed divinely.
"Couldn't you wait for my answer?" she murmured softly.
"No," I said, "I couldn't."
She turned over the pages of her novel in abstracted fashion. On the fly leaf
I caught sight of some writing—"To Lucy from George," and the date.
Then a sudden inspiration struck me.
I bent my head close to hers, so close that a stray tendril of her brown hair brushed my cheek.
"Lucy," I whispered, almost putting my lips to her shell-like little ear, "what is your answer?"
She laughed.
"Wouldn't you like to know?" she said. "I posted the letter this morning."
"In—in answer to my letter?" I put in, taking a step in the dark.
"Yes, in answer to your letter. And you'd have had it tonight."
"And as it is I've missed it."
"Yes, you've missed it."
"But you'll tell me what—what you said?"
She bent her head and toyed with the tassel of her parasol. She was very lovely.
"I've half a mind not to—just to tease you," she murmured.
"Do you want to drive me distracted?" I cried.
A ripple of laughter came from her rosy lips.
"You see if you'd only waited?"
"But I—I couldn't wait. Lucy, you will tell me?"
"Not—not now."
"When?"
"To—tonight perhaps."
"Here?"
"Yes, here."
Then I wondered what it was he had asked her. It seemed to me that it could only be one thing, but—Ah, I had it.
"Have you kept my letter?" I asked.
"Kept it? Oh, George, yes. Why, I have it here," putting her hand to her breast.

"Just—er—let me have a look at it a moment."
"Let you? Oh, so you want to draw back, do you? Well, you can if you!"
"My darling, I!"
"George, forgive me. Of course I know. There it is."
"I was about to say," I observed as I took it, "that I only wanted to see if I had spelled necessary with one c or two."
She opened wide her eyes.
"Necessary?" she said. "Why, there's no such word in the letter."
"Isn't there?" I murmured. "Let me see."
Yes, I read it, but I don't think it would be right to let any one else do so.
My theory was correct, however.
"I am wrong," I said, as I returned it to her. "I didn't use the word."
"I knew you didn't."
There was a pause.
"And—and you don't want to draw back?"
"Not for worlds," I cried recklessly.
"Draw back indeed."
We talked of many things after that.
She told me about her mother, who was an invalid, it appeared.
"And I shan't be able to come out this afternoon," she said, "but you'll come up and see mamma?"
I hesitated a moment—only a moment.
"Yes," I said. "But do you know—
it's very funny—but the fact is I've actually forgotten where you're staying.
Ha, ha!"
"Oh, you stupid boy! South Parade, of course."
"Of course. Number?"
"Eleven."
"To be sure."
"Mamma will be so pleased to see you."
"I shall be pleased to see mamma,"
I responded.
The band had ceased playing now,
and I saw her off the pier—saw her home, in fact.
"This afternoon then?" she said brightly as I bade her good morning.
I said yes, but I did not mean it.
No, I had resolved to let the matter go no farther. Up to this point it had simply been a very innocent joke. But it should end.
Hang it, you know it wasn't right!
In fact, it was dishonorable. I—well, then I thought of her answer and what it was likely to be, and—well, at 3 o'clock I was sitting in the front drawing room at No. 11 sipping tea and talking to a very charming old lady who welcomed me as a son.
Lucy accompanied me to the door
when I took my leave.
"What time shall I call for you?" I asked.
"Seven."
"I shall live in torture till then."
"No, you must live—in hope," she replied, and then she disappeared.
I was there at 7. She was ready. She put her arm through mine quite confidingly, and we walked down the pier.
Our corner was vacant, and we sat down. Her eyes were very bright, and her cheeks were flushed. It was a mild, warm evening. The sea splashed lazily on the golden sands, and the band played a dreamy waltz.
"Have you forgotten?" I murmured as I took her hand.
"Forgotten?"
"Your answer?"
She was silent.
"Lucy, what is it? Speak! This—this suspense is killing me."
I think I did it pretty well. There was a decided thrill of genuine passion in my voice.
The fact is, I believe I loved her.
"It's—it's a word of th—three letters," she murmured.
"Of three?"
"George, is my hat straight?"
This was after—after the band had played three waltzes and two descriptive pieces, and it was time to go home.
I saw her home, of course, and we lingered at the gate another half hour.
"I may tell mamma?" she whispered softly as I released her.
"Yes, do," I said.
After all, what did it matter?
Then I suddenly felt the pressure of her lips to mine, and the next moment she had vanished. And as I walked back to my hotel smoking a cigarette I thought what a pleasant evening I had spent.
Alas! I never saw her again. I should have met her on the pier the next morning, but I did not do so. I don't think —I say I don't think—I should have done so in any case, but the real reason why I didn't was this:
As I came down the next morning I met a gentleman on the stairs who was so like me that we might have been twins.
It was "George."
What did I do? Why, promptly packed my portmanteau and took train to a remote village in Scotland. I often wonder now if he ever found out. Of one thing I am certain. She would not tell him.—St. Paul's.

Deaf and Dumb at Intervals.

While talking to some friends in Wilkesbarre recently Patrick Healey was stricken deaf and dumb. He wrote on a piece of paper: "Do not be alarmed. This will pass off in three days. I know what it is. I have had it before."
It seems that Healey, while in Ireland, 20 years ago, was thrown from a horse.
As a result of injuries received he was deaf and dumb for three days. Every four years since then he has had a similar attack, lasting in each instance three days.—Philadelphia Record.

of finding them."—Indianapolis Jour-

WINTER FASHIONS.

Minor Conceits and Novelties That Are Necessary to Style.

Very high, flaring collars of fur, lined with velvet, cut in various eccentric shapes, are a fashionable finish for this winter's jackets.

White lace survives the past, and, fashionable as it was in the summer, remains still a favorite. It is combined with all sorts of materials and trimmings, and is constantly seen associated with fur. Insertions of lace framed in fur bands and collarettes are composed of fur and lace together.

Green, red and all violet tones will be much worn, besides wool mixtures of brown and beige, blue and black, etc. Ribbed stuffs, bure, poplin and all rough and hairy goods are in vogue for winter wear, although they in no degree affect the favor shown to smoothly finished cloth, which is equally fashionable.

Ball capes and wraps to be worn over evening gowns are usually white, since they may then accompany a costume of any color. They may be made of broche or thick ottoman silk and lined with quilted silk or satin, or with fur. Long capes are usually preferred, as they are warm and enveloping, and at the same time do not crush the gown. They are trimmed with bands of fur all around, and with embroidery when the goods are plain. The fur on each side of the front and around the neck has knots of ribbon tucked into it at close intervals. Loose hoods are sometimes added to these capes and are either pointed or round, but in all cases are large.

The costume of which an illustration is given is a combination of silk and velvet. The skirt is of mauve glace taffeta, with a vernice pattern in green. It is plain in front and has three godets at the back. The bolero of green velvet is laid in horizontal plaits and has a square trimming of gold and mauve embroidery. The full chemise is of mauve mousseline de soie and the corselet belt of green velvet. There are tight sleeves of taffeta like the skirt, which have full, triple caps of green velvet. The green velvet toque is trimmed with mauve flowers. JUDIC CHOLLET.

HOW TO DRESS.

Not Every Woman Can Put Garments Together Neatly.

Knowing how to wear and how to take care of clothes is half the secret of good dressing, and this should be and is a consolation to the thousands of women whose pecuniary position is not as high as their social grade and to whom the problem of how to dress in a way suitable to their standing, with small expenditure of money, is a difficult one.

To put on garments neatly is an accomplishment that not every woman possesses, and the absence of it is rendered more conspicuous when the ill adjusted clothing is of costly material. There are those the back gathers of whose skirt are always pulled around to one side, whose bodice is never fastened straight, whose bonnet is ever askew, whose gloves and shoes are perennially short of a button, whose pins are but half stuck in, whose collar is sure to be crooked and whose belt slips up above the skirt band. For such, though they be clothed in silks and satins of richest weave, there is no possibility of elegance, for neatness and care are among its most important elements. On the other hand, there are women whose plain gowns are so speckled, so accurately put on and so well carried, that the costume bears the hall mark of refinement and fashion.

The care of clothing is of almost equal importance. It goes without saying that garments ought to be kept fresh, clean and crisp as long as possible, whether they are expensive or cheap. A hat tossed hit or miss upon the table, a gown thrown over a chair and sat upon, a wrap dragged upon the floor, will bear but too plain evidence against its owner's neatness the next time it is worn. Careful handling, a clothes brush and plenty of coat hangers, will do wonders toward the maintenance of a good wardrobe.

The picture shows a gown of steel gray faille. The skirt is trimmed on either side of the tablier with bands of black velvet terminating in points and fastened at the lower end by steel buttons. Similar bands are placed at each side of the back. The close bodice is trimmed with black velvet arranged in bretelles, and the tight sleeves are of black velvet, with a drapery of gray faille at the top. The wide belt and the shoulder bows are also of black velvet. The black velvet toque is trimmed with black ostrich plumes and paste cabochons. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE IRON LIFEBOAT.

An Iron Boat Once Thought to Be the Dream of a Lunatic.

But such work as this, successful as it was, was only what we might call amusement—there was far more serious work to perform. From 1830 to 1840 the young man was spending all his spare time and money at work upon a boat which should not only save lives, but which could not be crushed on the rocks when the waves were hurling themselves shoreward. His cork-lined boats were successful, and were giving him a world-wide fame as an inventor and philanthropist; but he felt that, unless he could invent a boat of some other material than wood, the object was but half attained.

He resolved to try iron. Those of his friends who knew of this step looked upon him as many an inventor is looked upon in our own day—as little less than a lunatic. Iron for a boat? Why, it would take such a vast amount of wood to float the iron that it would be impossible to propel the boat, to say nothing of having it breast the waves of a furious gale and go out through the storm to a wrecked ship! The idea, they said, was simply preposterous. The young man acknowledged the apparent force of the argument, but he believed there was a way out of the difficulty. He started in the path alone. He found many cruel and disheartening difficulties in the way, but he bravely met all trouble, and he nobly maintained his high purpose and won at last a magnificent victory, not only for himself, but for all mankind.

In his later years Mr. Francis loved to tell of the trials of that critical time. Amid his later honors he never forgot the days when at one moment he seemed so near to success, and at another so near to the saddest of failures.

It was now the year 1841. He had taken his family—for he was married—to a country place where they could live more cheaply than in the city. He had the use of a room in a house on Anthony street, in the city of New York, in which to carry on the work of his inventions, by the favor of Myndert Van Sholek, a gentleman who was much interested in the outcome of the matter. Here, shut in from all the world, in sore poverty, he worked for twelve months, a long, discouraging, weary year. The end to be gained was to make iron float on water, something which his best friends thought the dream of a lunatic. Day by day and night by night he worked ceaselessly. He denied himself all luxuries, all comforts. He met with failure after failure.

He found himself one day at the close of the year reduced to actual want—and his object not attained. He had but a pittance in his pocket. He was hungry, but he needed one more piece of iron to make one last supreme effort. He went out to a junk shop with his last twenty-five cents. He bought his piece of iron for thirteen cents. With the rest of the money he bought bread and molasses. All that night he worked. In the morning he found that the rats had stolen the piece of bread which he had saved for his breakfast, but the labor of the night had brought victory. He had solved the problem! He had conquered in the fiercest battle of his life. He had achieved the success he sought, and the victory meant the saving of the lives of many thousands of his fellow-men.

The corrugation of iron, forming ridges in lines along the sides of the boats, had been invented. By this aid he was enabled to make the iron float, for he should bend it and shape it to the curved form of a boat, and the bendings or ridges in the sides took the place of all stays, supports, ribs, timbers, furnishing in themselves the support and strength, while nothing was added to the weight. The metal was put under great pressure to do this, but it stayed in place, and the victory was won.—St. Nicholas.

The three year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is, in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros., of that place; and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. BUTLER, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. "This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me and I want all my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good." Sold at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

TAX NOTICE.

STATE OF WISCONSIN, } ss COUNTY OF ROCK,
City Treasurer's office, Janesville, Wis., Oct. 29, 1896.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
I hereby give notice that I intend to make application to the circuit court for the county of Rock, on the first day of the next term thereof, to be held in the court room in the city of Janesville, on the 4th day of November, 1896, at 10 o'clock a.m., of that day, or as soon thereafter as the same can be heard, for a judgment against the several lots, lands, pieces, and parcels of lands described in a report then and there to be made and filed with the clerk of said court, for the unpaid city taxes levied by the common council of the city of Janesville for the year 1896 and all persons interested therein are requested to attend such term of said court and offer their defense if any they may have to such application.
JAS. A. FATHERS,
Treasurer of the City of Janesville.

A Suspense In Business Circles

But no doubt in the minds of the purchasing public as to the place to buy their daily wants. All through the late hard times we have been doing business; and lots of it, and why?—The things people want can always be found at our store, and always at lower prices than at other stores.

Does your neighbor use.....

A Garland Stove?

Ask him what he thinks of it. Go to his house and sit by it a few moments and then come and buy the best stove on earth. We carry Peninsular and Radiant Home Stoves—both of them good stoves.

Dark nights compel the use of.....

Lanterns

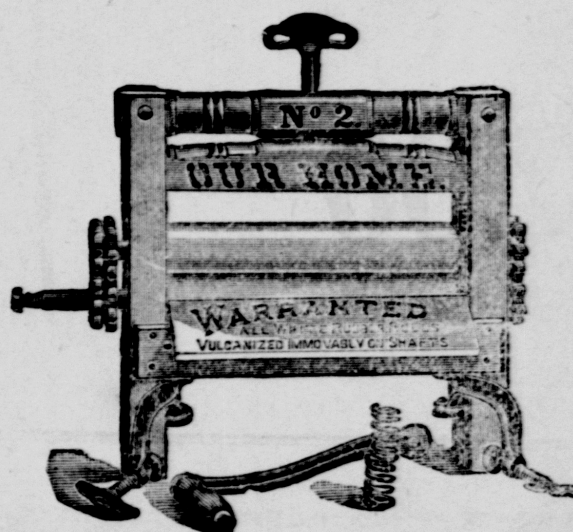

for out of door use. We sell the good kind—the lanterns that give splendid light, at way down prices.

Does your wife have the washing done at the house? We sell....

A Warranted Wringer at $1.35.

Every one of them the best.

Beautiful Crockery and Glassware :::

are articles the ladies glory in; yet they don't buy so many of them unless there is a price object. We sell more crockery and glassware than most any concern in the city. Our assortment is wonderfully large. The secret is the close margin we make.

IF YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY

on Shoes, Clothing, Underwear, or Housekeeping Goods of any kind don't go anywhere else but to the Big Cash Store, On The Corner.

IMPROVEDWELSBACH LIGHT.

Improved methods of manufacturing and an enormous increase in sales during the past year have materially reduced the cost of production of the Improved Welsbach Light, making it possible to reduce the retail price as follows:

Light with Standard Shade, - - $2.00

Former price, $2.50.

Light with Reading Lamp Shade, - - 2.25

Former price, $2.75.

Lights with Decorated Shades at Proportionately Reduced Prices.

The Improved Welsbach Light is far beyond comparison with any other method of artificial lighting. Burns $\frac{1}{2}$ the gas--give 3 times the light.
